Nomination of St Patrick's Church, Braddon to the ACT Provisional Heritage Register.

Dear Gerhard,

The ACT National Trust has supported the nomination of St Patrick's Church, Braddon to the ACT Heritage Register in the past and we still believe the site has strong historic, community and cultural values.

These values are exemplified in the building itself and the continuing traditions still practiced there today. The church is much more than just a building; it is the strong attachments a wide variety of Canberran's have with the site that make it historically and culturally significant. These connections vary from those who attended the school to descendants of significant pioneer families and the local German community.

The Trust still believes that the building is a visible connection to, and reminder of the immediate pre-war and post-war architectural style, and the formation and focal point of a strong cultural and community group and as such would like to see the nomination of the site to the Provisional Register and in due time to the Heritage Register.
