

Exterior of the Causeway Hall, practically completed. (Source: Canberra, General Notes for the Information of Public Servants)

Interior of the Causeway Hall (Source: Canberra, General Notes for the Information of Public Servants)

Source: Canberra, Early Days at the Causeway, Jill Waterhouse

Mildenhall Collection, Australian Archives (ACT), above and below

Voluntary workers, with their coats off and hats on, put up the walls of the Causeway Hall in one day. The Federal Capital Commission contributed to the cost. This project was one of the best examples of co-operation between government and community in the new capital city.

The Causeway Hall built in the summer of 1925-26, was in use well before the Provisional Parliament House, 1927, or the Albert Hall, 1928.